A Word About Our New Series:

Most of our releases at Manga-Heaven tend to be light hearted and comical in nature. Jigakuren, or Love in Hell, is no exception to this; however, unlike some of our more popular series like, say Youth Fight! This is not a series for everyone.

Jigakuren is described as a "slightly ecchi death comedy" by its mangaka. This is a pretty accurate description of it, but let me go into detail for those who are concerned about mature and/or bloody content. This series has a lot of nudity, fondling, and a whole bunch of sexually based jokes especially in these first two chapters. This is usually not a problem with most people. The concern I have is with the other half-- the blood. The blood content in this series is very reminiscent of Bakusatsu Tenshi Dokuro-chan for those who are familiar with it. Stuff like blood gushing from wounds in almost comical amounts is pretty common so far.

If any of the above sound a little too much for you, then perhaps you should not read further. If you are OK with the above, you will probably find the series quite a funny and enjoyable read.

Thanks for your time, and I hope you enjoy the new series!

For Your Information (A small TL note)

On page 1 of this chapter in Love in Hell, there is a paraphrase in Japanese of a quote from Stephen Hawking. Since the paraphrase is more suited to the context of this manga, it is translated as the paraphrase. However, I thought it might be prudent to tell you, the true words of Stephen Hawking according to the respective article on Fox News.com is:

"There is no heaven or afterlife for broken down computers. That is a fairy story for people who are afraid of the dark."

Now that that's settled, enjoy Chapter 2!

I SHOULDN'T HAVE GIVEN MY STEAMED BUN TO THAT OLD GUY EARLIER...

I HADN'T EATEN A THING SINCE I GOT HERE...

OH NO FOR GODS SAKE FOR GODS SAKE EAT SOMETHING

The comic strip is divided into two panels. In the first panel, Gumball is shown from the chest up, looking at a large, open book. The book has a drawing of a man's face on it. A speech bubble from Gumball says, "I SHOULDN'T HAVE GIVEN MY STEAMED BUN TO THAT OLD GUY EARLIER..." In the second panel, Gumball is standing and looking down at his hands. A speech bubble from him says, "I HADN'T EATEN A THING SINCE I GOT HERE..." Another speech bubble, which appears to be a thought or a separate line of dialogue, says, "BUT MAN, AM I STARVING..."
